OBITUARY

Henry Willard

The death occurred at his home near Queenstown on Thursday, May 29th last, of Mr. Henry Willard, from pneumonia at the age of 55 years. The deceased was away in Saskatchewan inspecting some leased land that he was negotiating for and there he contracted a very bad cold which developed into pneumonia. Mr. Willard was a very large man weighing over 300 lbs., and he could not resist the ravages of this malady and quickly succumbed. He leaves a widow and four young sons to mourn his loss. The funeral took place on Saturday, May 31, interment being made at Milo cemetery. The funeral cortege was one of the largest ever seen in the community. The deceased was widely known throughout Southern Alberta and at one time farmed in the High River district.

The High School basketball girls were again defeated by Blackie last Saturday on the Blackie grounds. In the first period the two teams seemed quite evenly matched as there were no baskets made by either side. Blackie scored two baskets in both the second and third periods. In the last period Grace Dingwall scored a basket for Vulcan and Alta. Market made a free throw. Final score was 3, Blackie favor. Clyde Clark refereed the game. The Vulcan line-up was as follows: forwards, Olive Robinson and Grace Dingwall; centre, Marian Flood; guards, Alta. Market and Garnette Sims; sub, Winnie Flood.

Vulcan Lodge, No. 121, D.E.O.E. will leave nothing undone to make the forthcoming carnival a huge success. Committees met last week and are now busy planning for the big events that will crowd the two days, June 30 and July 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs both have an enviable reputation as first class hotel people, and it is certain that the standard of service at our hostelry will be maintained. Associated with Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs will be their son and daughter, together with the former's wife.

Max and Ted Mutz will, of course remain in Vulcan, conducting the Regal Oil agency and the service station hitherto known as the Black and White.

VULCAN VICTORIOUS IN BASEBALL GAMES

Champion played Vulcan on Friday evening. It looked like a run-away for Champion, they getting four scores in the first inning, and Vulcan nil. But Champion went hay-wire, and when the dust cleared away the tally was 16-6 in favor of Vulcan. It was a poor game from the fans' viewpoint, as error after error was chalked up. Mullins was umpire.

Sunday the Vulcan team motored to Carlsland and played a game of ball. (More like cricket). The final score was 24 to 8 in favor of Vulcan. Carlsland being short of some of the best players could not hold the Vulcans down; so it was a walk-away. But Carlsland plays in Vulcan on Wednesday afternoon at six o'clock, and will have their regular team, so do not fail to see this game. It should be good ball as the Carlsland boys defeated the Calgary Dodgers, 1-0 last week.

Turn out in good rooting form, and help the boys along.

TOWN VERSUS CITY

Most of us have at some time or other engaged in doughty debate on the relative charms of town versus city life. A few years ago, there were marked material disadvantages attached to life in a small town or in the country. These disadvantages have quite disappeared, and it remains for the Settler Independent to prove a very strong case for the superior merits of town life. He says:

"Those who claim that town life is more monotonous than city life forget that the town includes the country, and that the town dweller has all the added interest given him by friends in the country, as well as accessibility to the beauties of nature.

If a town is large enough to have modern conveniences, it is large enough to have modern inconveniences. It is large enough to give all that a city is supposed to give. The town dweller can go to church or movies if he feels that way. He can get more out of skating, curling, golf, tennis and other sports, because he does not have to go such a distance to enjoy them. If he wants to stay at home in the evening, he has the same daily newspapers, radio reception, electric lights, bridge guests. If venturing.

NOT THE DOLE

The Canadian Credit Men's Association argues that Canada should call the best minds of the Dominion into conference before commencing itself to any "dole" solution of the unemployment situation. Once committed to the dole, this young and virile country would be yoked with a harmful system, that would be well nigh impossible to rid itself of.

The dole as instituted in Britain met an after-war emergency which had to be dealt with in some such way.

But Canadian conditions are not similar. This country needs workers and it should be able to supply work for all. A concerted effort on the part of industrial heads and government, should be able to devise some scheme by which this country spread from coast to coast would be able to absorb its sparse ten million of population.

AN UNPLEASANT REFLECTION

A traveller once visited an old Boer farmer and in displaying his goods, showed him a looking glass.

The old man had never seen one before, and as soon as he saw his reflection, he exclaimed, "Why, this is my dear old father."

Seeing that he was so entranced with it, the traveller gave it to him and the "old father" was locked in a drawer, which every day or so the old man opened to fondle the glass.

Now, his wife was very curious to know what was in the drawer, but she could never find the key. But one day she spied it, and eagerly opening the drawer, found the mirror.

"Oh," she said triumphantly, "So that's the cat he looks at, is it?"

CHINA THE SLEEPING GIANT

R. J. Crombie, editor of the Vancouver Sun, who toured China recently tells interesting things of that country. He foresees for Canada great opportunities to supply that sleeping giant with machinery, produce, etc., when it starts to wake up. He concludes: "Last night China went to bed and twenty and thirty millions of her people were starving. Last night Canada went to bed and was worrying over a surplus of 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. The earth's problem is not over-production but proper distribution." Mr. Crombie tend some public event every evening through which the personality shows, says, nor one need be afraid of as often as in the city. He can at food, fuel, clothing, of necessities.

The newspaper advertisement is luxuries and indulgences.

All successful business is built up on honest, legitimate, attractive ad-knowledge. It directs the purchasing of the greatest stimulant of purchases as he is sick he can have the same hospital attention at cheaper rates. All in all, a person get more solid satisfaction by living in a small place—not too small and not too large, than by life in the city.

NO AID TO PRINTER

The Financial Post claims that the new tariff changes while favoring some industries, have completely ignored the printing industry, which leads in payment of wages and is only surpassed by the pulp and paper industry in value of production. The Post contends that the tariffs in connection with this industry are absolute and that they neither serve the needs of the industry nor give to the government the revenue to which it is entitled. So much fine lithographing is imported into Canada on the pound basis, regardless of value, that Canadian manufacturers cannot compete with it. As a matter of fact, we in Canada are obliged to use Christmas cards printed in United States when we would much prefer our own manufacture, not because our own manufacturers cannot turn out just as good work but because, owing to inadequate tariff on imported stuff, they cannot compete with it. If Canada could even produce the Christmas, Easter, birthday and other seasonal and special cards and booklets needed by her own people, the difference in the wage sheets of the Dominion would be very noticeable.

LET TELEVOX DO IT

With the debut of "Televox" the mechanical man as an after-dinner speaker at a New York banquet, a new era may have dawned for public speakers.

Televox will be a wonderful saving to the worn-out pre-election politician. If he can arrange to have a mechanical man appear on platform after platform, to address enthusiastic or belligerent hearers, he will save himself a good deal of wear and tear. It is a step ahead of the radio.

Every government should invest in a heavy supply of televoxes, and start them off in circulation before elections. The political aspirant, instead of rattling round the country, submitting to hand-shaking and back slapping, will ship his televox by express which will be met by the committee, who will install him on the platform. Then Televox with his green eye and red eye shining in kindly fashion on the electorate will be wound up and set going. One great good will result, he will be impervious to insult, heckling and abuse.

SOFTBALL SOOTHES

The softball epidemic has swept the country infecting young and old alike. It is fast becoming the major pastime of all informal outdoor gatherings, and counts amongst its devotees, almost all who can stand up, toss a ball and do a small stint of running. Strangely enough however, the skilled baseball player is also a confirmed addict.

It is said to have earned its first popularity in the trenches, where it could be played in very small space, in the odd moments of recreation, without any special equipment.

Its most pleasing feature is that almost everyone may shine occasionally. Almost everyone can hit the nice big ball, sometime. Almost all can get round the bases without dying enroute. It is such an amiable, pleasant sport, with some little humor always in the offing. Because it does not aim to be a contest of strength and speed and rare skill, there is no great tension. No one is keyed up. There is nothing serious at stake.

In fact, it wins hands down over other games in this respect. Nothing is at stake, and no tempers are lost. It is highly novel and highly enjoyable to witness a sport in which both players and fans are all good natured and happy.

It is so customary to associate jangled nerves and venomous words and high tempers with most competitive games, that recreation usually takes on more grimness than the most serious things of life.

THE PRAYER OF A MAN

Teach me that sixty minutes make one hour; sixteen ounces one pound, and one hundred cents a dollar. Help me live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow, and unharmed by faces of those to whom I have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square and that in earning it I may not stick the gaff where it does not belong. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money; blind me to the faults of others, but reveal to me my own. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children. And when come the smell of flowers and the tread of soft steps, and the crunch of wheels out in front, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple. "Here Lies a Man."

A FAIR BAROMETER

Recording news is only one function of the newspaper. By its advertisements it records also the business life of the city or town. It is a pretty fair barometer of business life, as it ebbs and flows through the streets but its advertising pages show up the business houses which are abreast of the times and those which are sunk in a rut. Advertisements tell a story of enterprise and initiative. Each one has a personality back of it, and the cleverest, most inviting advertisement is the one strengthening the east economically. The man who feared Asia was like the man who 30 years ago feared to increase the workmen's wages.

NAUGHTY! NAUGHTY!

The Vegreville Observer shakes a reproving finger at Premier Brownlee for holding a mass meeting in a northern district on a Sunday. He says that although the best authorities claim these were not political meetings, yet public mass meetings for any purpose save the religious, are surprising if not quite horrifying.

Using the soundest possible basis of reproach, the Vegreville editor, refers the Premier to the Book of Exodus, Chapter 20, verses 8 to 11 inclusive.

In U. S. every nine wage earning persons have to support one individual on the government pay roll. In Canada the support is spread out amongst ten tax payers. It wouldn't be so bad if you were sure you were supporting a friend.

A PROFITABLE MACHINE

Every purchaser of a McCormick-Deering ball-bearing cream separator can have the fullest confidence that he possesses the best cream separator money can buy. The new McCormick-Deering is the Harvester Company's contribution to the dairy industry—a contribution that is bound to assist materially in placing the business of dairy farming on a more profitable basis.

GET MORE CATTLE

Bert Hoffman in Examiner, Says Get into Cattle Breeding

According to the last report of our department of agriculture, the province of Alberta has only 1,299,495 head of cattle of all kinds. Of this number 345,000 head are milk cows.

The state of Iowa, with only one-fifth the area of Alberta, has a total of nearly four million cattle.

There is no reason in the world why Alberta should not produce and keep double the number of cattle now in the province. Every farm is capable of keeping a few head. Much of the older wheat land should be seeded to pasture grass in order to maintain a few head of cattle. Beef is a fair price during most of the year. There is always a good market for dairy cows, so this small sideline could be made profitable, even on a wheat farm.

With our improving roads and more rapid methods of transportation, it is easy and inexpensive to market a few head of fat cows or steers by way of the truck. Aside from the money value of a small herd of cattle on a farm the value of the fertilizer to the depleted wheat land is very great.—Bert Hoffman.

LONG ON THE WAY

On the first of September 1930, Alberta is 25 years old. The Alberta Act came into force in 1905, and two months later, an election was held, the parties entering with vigor into the fray. The main issues were the right of Mennonites to establish separate school, and the ownership of public lands.

The Provincial Liberals supported the Ottawa policy of Sir Wilfred Laurier while the Conservatives led by R. B. Bennett contended that all mines, lands and minerals within the province of Alberta should belong to this province. Against this, Premier Rutherford, Liberal head, argued that the money grant in place of lands was more satisfactory. On this policy he carried Alberta 23 seats to 2.

Not many years after however, both parties agreed that the lands should belong to the province, and it was Premier Sifton who made the first formal demand on Ottawa in 1911. The defeat of Sir Wilfred in 1911 on the Reciprocity issue, deferred action. In 1913 the three prairie provinces presented their demand at Ottawa, but this time war intervened. In 1919 the demand was renewed, but the older provinces presented opposition, and the matter has not been consummated until this year.

The matter of the transfer of public lands has been through many a stormy session in which all parties were lined up on opposite sides.

After 25 years as a province, the matter has finally been settled.

HELPING HEALTH

Women's Institutes Active in Promoting Good Health

From the report given in Calgary by the Child Welfare secretary of the Women's Institutes, it was shown that this splendid organization is doing its share in the interest of health. Through the province fifty-six branches have held baby clinics, the number of children examined ranging from 8 to 95. Some branches have held eye clinics, three held dental clinics. Nineteen branches had the children of the district inoculated against diphtheria, while several had inoculation for scarlet fever, and also vaccination. Many branches worked to secure a visit of the travelling health clinics. At one of these clinics 140 children were examined and 45 minor operations were performed. At another 90 operations were performed.

Other health enterprises of many Women's Institutes have included, the serving of hot lunches in schools, the purchase of first aid kits, posting danger signs near schools, prizegiving for health posters and many other matters.

COMMUNICATION

Editor Advocate:

Dear Sir:

We hear a great deal these days re unemployment, but no one seems to have any cure, naturally we feel that the big concerns should do something. Open up work of some kind, even if not entirely necessary at the present moment.

I think we are all in hopes the government will put on a burst of speed and do something, but in the meantime it has occurred to me that as individuals in our own community could we not do something to help those who possibly, through no fault of their own, find themselves in sore straits, not only the stranger within our gates, but also those who, after a jobless winter, find the going mighty hard.

Possibly in the province of Alberta we find no community in any better financial condition than our own, where there is a stability not found everywhere. We have many wealthy people in our midst. This condition has no doubt come about through the fact that we have seldom, if ever, experienced a total crop failure and here is what I am getting at, if we cannot those who are more fortunately placed, put out the helping hand, not by giving charity (the average human does not want that) but by giving him something to do, and paying him a reasonable sum for his labor?

If we wish to help keep things level, now is not the time for tightening up, nor do I really think there is any justifiable reason for doing so. There is no need for panic, and that work that you figured last fall on doing first thing in the spring could still be done. There are many who have the odd job to be done who have either decided to put it off till next year or do it themselves. The same people would scarcely feel the strain if they let some other poor beggar have the work and there supply him and his family with grub stake for a little longer. Give him the change to feel that God is in the heaven and all's well with the world.

True, many of us have been brought up to the belief that thrift is a very special virtue, but like all good things, it may be overdone, and circumstances do alter cases. Let us think it over.

AGAINST LAUGHTER

Philosophers Disapprove Against it As Well as Saints

With wheat away down, unemployment rampant, and trade not picking up as fast as some would like, a good many people are feeling that life is not the care-free business it was a year or so ago.

It may afford them a little comfort then, to realize that laughter has always been condemned by philosophers, saints and authorities on behaviour. It places humanity, it seems, on a plane with the lower animals. Consider the words commonly used to describe laughter, bellows, roars, cackles, crows or whinnies—all animal comparisons.

Philosophers have always disapproved of it, so have saints. Even worldly authorities have the same attitude. Lord Chesterfield who left a book of instructions on behaviour denounces vehemently "the disagreeable and silly trick of laughing, which makes a disagreeable noise and a shocking distortion of the face. True wit never yet made anybody laugh. It is above."

There is not a single laugh described in the Old Testament, except possibly the laughter of scorn, or the laughter "like the cracking of thorns under a pot." Tragedy lives on through the ages, always understandable, but even Shakespeare's best jokes have to be explained to modern readers.

The only defense of laughter offered, is that murderers and thieves are rarely noted for their hilarity. They are for the most part very serious men, who might have been law abiding if they could have found relief in the foolish animal habit of laughter.

So let it be our comfort that if we find life at present no laughing matter, we are evolving toward the plane of saints and philosophers.

If, on the other hand, we are sinking to the thief and murderer class, let us hope that wheat will go up and business boom before we go all the way.

Of the more than 711,000 farms in Canada about 86 per cent. are owned by the occupants. The total acreage of these farms is over 110,880,000.

GROWTH IN CULTURE

Alberta Musical Festival Remarkable Development for New Country

In speaking of the resources and development of our province, we are all too often apt to forget that man does not live by bread alone—that there are other spheres of development than the material. Our attention is called sharply to this fact by observing the splendid development of the Alberta Musical Festival. It is a cultural effort on the part of a young province, which has been rewarded by ever-growing support and interest.

Twenty-two years ago in response to the craving for some organized musical organization, the Festival was founded in Edmonton, with 11 classes, 3 trophies and 105 entries.

This year it has grown to almost 400 entries with about 2000 persons participating. It draws into its circle musical aspirants of every nationality from city, country and village, from the far Peace River to the Southern boundary. Church choirs, schools, quartets, soloists, all have an opportunity of competing. It is a rare treat and an inspiration to all those who realize the essential place which music holds in life. The essence of the purpose of this organization is the education of everyone to appreciate better music and the creation of a public sentiment which will demand better music.

For the first time in local school history, the pupils of our own public school have been entered in the contest this week.

SUNSHINE AHEAD

Business Conditions Will Improve in the Near Future

It appears to be the fate of countries that trade depression works in cycles. The courses may differ, but the results have always been the same, with many industries and individuals suffering or anticipating that which they may be called upon to suffer.

Expert judges for many months before, warned the public that the unnatural wave of speculation prevailing last year, could only result as others had resorted—in a crash. It came about even as they had predicted.

In consequence, many people, although actually untouched, have swung to the extreme of the pendulum. They are inclined to keep their money out of circulation, investing in nothing and sitting tight. This too, is an unnatural state, soon outgrown.

After all, in the last autumn crash, no great amount of wealth was destroyed. But a good deal changed hands, being taken from the many and held by a few. Before long this money, must, for economic reasons, return to circulation. Things will again begin to move. There will follow investment and expansion.

Following all the rules which have obtained in previous depressions the re-action sets in shortly and people speedily forget the winter of their distress.

NEW PENSIONS ACT

The new Pensions Act, as passed by Commons and Senate, with a further sum of $8,000,000 added for furthering its scope, is generally approved.

The requests and wishes of returned men have been regarded, and its amendments have sought to remove many of the rankling grievances under which the old act was condemned.

The new act repeals the provision in the old Act which requires that applications for pensions in respect to death be made within three years after death or within three years after cases of dependency arise. Notwithstanding the fact that their disabilities have not increased, those who have accepted final payments in lieu of their pension will again be pensionable.

The new Pensions Bill is a large and generous measure of justice, wide in its scope, with many matters of irritation to returned men removed. It will be a gratification not only to the returned men, but to all who have their interests at heart. It is a proper remedy of things which needed remedying, with proper consideration paid those who deserve this consideration.

FREEDOM LIMITED

"I am going to live in a small town where I'll be free to keep cows and chickens," says the city man. Little does he realize, the limitations of freedom even in the small town. Little liberties are bound about by by-laws and restrictions which may surprise him.

True, he may attain his heart's desire and keep a cow, without losing caste. But unless he can arrange safe out-of-town pasture for her, she hangs like a millstone about his neck especially in the fly season. He tethers, but a plague of flies descends, and she bursts all bonds, and is free to do her wicked worst up and down the boulevards. A highstrung cow is about as fruitful a trouble-maker as a small town has. She can cut a wide swathe of destruction in a very few minutes, and no amount of apologizing can undo the damage. Cow owners are just a little more trouble ridden, than the run of mankind on a chronically apologetic look.

Chickens also, while sounding idyllic—fresh eggs from your own hens, and so on—follow blithely along in the wake of cows as dissension breeders. No man should keep fowl who kind. In the course of years they has not a secure chicken run. One able-bodied rooster if at large, can lose friends for a man quicker than a studied career of crime.

And so it goes on. The spacious, carefree atmosphere of a small town is sometimes deceiving. For every liberty conceded, there is a provision made by which that liberty must not encroach on a neighbor's comfort. A small community must be safeguarded for the benefit of the whole, quite as much as a larger centre.

The city man who imagines that by going to a small town, he will escape restrictions, is due for a great awakening.

Over $260,000,000 was spent in newspaper advertising in the U.S.A. last year. All of which goes to show the tremendous importance which is being attached to advertising newspapers.

CRUDE OIL FOR GAS

A new chemical process has been developed by which synthetic gasoline may be made from heavy crude oil. This is a hydrogenation process, in which crude fuel oil may have added to it a gaseous hydrogen and which will result in 100 gallons of gasoline from 100 gallons of crude oil.

As there already exists a chronic over-production of crude oil, the value of this process may be realized. There need be no shortage of gasoline and excess of fuel oil, in the world because the fuel oil may be broken into gasoline. The discovery will increase the life of petroleum reserves, as each barrel of crude oil will produce more than it now does.

The new process will be introduced throughout the world, with the Standard Oil of New Jersey as majority owner.

Plants will commence operations this year in New Jersey, Louisiana and Texas.
